Clarity

Clarity is the third and final anthology of true-life stories presented by The Pathfinders Collective.

This collection features both emerging and more established storytellers from across the globe. There are many tones, funny stories, serious stories, and everything in between. All are united by the common theme of a moment when the writer realized something important about themselves or their life. A time where they found clarity.

The Pathfinders Collective

Clarity is brought to you by The Pathfinders Collective, a collaboration between Erin Rodgers and Jeremy Kredlo. We are storytellers, united by our love of the true story movement.

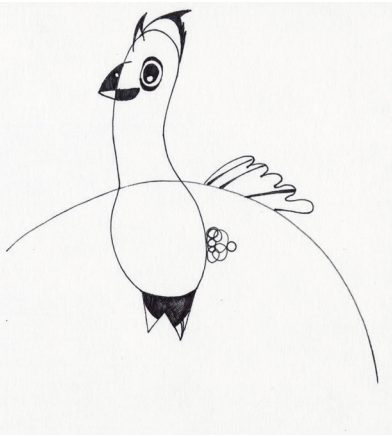

We have spent the last 3 years creating projects to lift up the voices and shine a light on the talent of the incredible international community of storytellers, specifically, those who tell stories from their lives.
